Develop or lead a Bush Kindergarten or Forest School

This is a thorough training qualification that will provide you with the knowledge and skills to set up, run or lead a Bush Kindergarten or Forest School.

Content is tailored locally to the Queensland environment and supports The Australian Curriculum, the Early Years Learning Framework and the National Quality Standards. It’s suitable for urban and rural settings.

Training consists of practical and theoretical learning, including:
• Children’s holistic development and how the approach links to self-esteem, resilience and emotional intelligence
• Risk management, health and safety policy and practice, outdoor first aid
• Children’s brain development, learning styles, schemas and behavioural management at Forest School
• Observations and analysis of Forest School sessions with children
• The environmental impact and management of the Forest School site
• How to plan and evaluate Forest School sessions
• How to complete a ‘Forest School Handbook’ for your service
• Common knots, lashing and building self-supporting structures and shelters
• Safe tool use, policy, practice and maintenance and woodcraft activities
• Fire lighting, management and safety cooking on a fire
• A ‘Walk on Country’ lead by an Aboriginal Elder
• And much more…
